Re: Chilewich, LLC w/Pacific Merchants Trading Company, Inc.
and Mac Fab --Copyright and Trade Dress Infringement

Gentlemen:

We are intellectual property counsel to Chilewich LLC, of New York, New York ("Chilewich"). As your company undoubtedly knows, our client is a highly regarded resource of products of modern design, including specifically place mats.

Chilewich's products are available in museum stores such as MoMA and the Museum of Contemporary Art (Chicago), design specialty stores such as Simon Pearce and Barneys and well-known retail stores such as Bloomingdales, Dayton-Hudson and Crate & Barrel.

Two of the most widely known Chilewich designs are identified as the "Basketweave" and "Engineered Squares" designs. Photographs of place mats incorporating the "Basketweave" and "Engineered Squares" designs are annexed as Exhibits A and B, respectively.

Pacific Merchants Trading Company
Mac Fab/MacDonald Faber
August 15, 2007

These place mats have met with considerable success, such that the trade and purchasing public have come to associate place mats with the "Basketweave" and "Engineered Squares" designs, as emanating from our client. As such, these place mats have become distinctive and are protectable as the trade dress of Chilewich.

In addition to trade dress, the "Engineered Squares" design is the subject of a copyright registered in the United States Copyright Office as Copyright Registration No. VA-1-281-505, effective March 9, 2005. A photocopy is annexed as Exhibit C.

We have just been informed that each of you are distributing and selling place mats and related products, which are substantially similar to and, without question, appear to be copied from our client's well-known and recognized "Basketweave" and "Engineered Squares" place mats. We are further advised that you are deliberately attempting to pawn off on the good will and reputation of our client by copying many different aspects of our client's business, including its product designs, packaging and promotional efforts and by touting your unauthorized copycat products as "the same as Chilewich."

In our opinion, the sale and distribution of these items is likely to cause the trade and members of the public to incorrectly assume that your items are endorsed, sponsored or otherwise associated with Chilewich. As such, the sale and offer for sale of these items constitute wilful violations of the trade dress rights of our client, in violation of the Lanham Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1051 et seq.

Furthermore, in our opinion, the activities of your companies in importing, selling and offering for sale the place mats and related products identified above and touting them as "the same as Chilewich" also constitutes wilful infringement of our client's aforementioned copyright in violation of the Copyright Act, 17 U.S.C. § 101 et seq. and unfair competition under applicable federal and state laws.

In view of the foregoing, we demand that your companies immediately cease and desist from selling or offering for sale the place mats identified above, or any other items substantially similar thereto as would infringe our client's trade dress and copyright rights.

We further demand that you advise us as to the number of infringing place mats sold by your companies, both in the United States and worldwide, the current status of your inventory and provide us with all details regarding all sales made to date.

Our client views this matter with considerable concern.

Pacific Merchants Trading Company
Mac Fab/MacDonald Faber
August 15, 2007

In view thereof, we request your response to this letter by the close of the business day 9 am on Thursday, August 16, 2007. Failure to do so will result in the commencement of legal action against your companies.

Very truly yours,

GOTTLIEB, RACKMAN & REISMAN, P.C.

For everyday use, our materials can be simply cleaned with warm soapy water or thrown in the dishwasher. The fabric is so amazingly durable that it can withstand abrasive rubbing. For tougher stains, a mild solution of bleach and water will solve the problem without damaging the fabric. Extremely stain resistant durable. Impervious to bacterial growth - no mold or mildew. macFABulous!!
